Utah Volleyball Will Have A Physical Presence On The Court In 2001

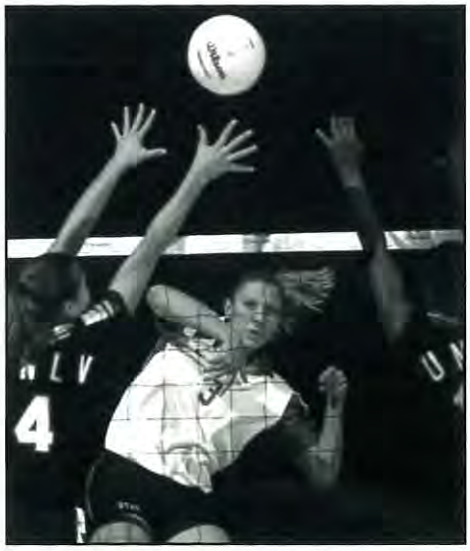
The Utes Have The Size, The Depth And The Experience To Contend For This Year's Mountain West Conference Crown

The Utah Women's Volleyball program has built quite an impressive resume over the years. After making consistent appearances in the NCAA Tournament and as ranking among the nation's elite, the Utes are confident that will continue in 2001. Last season, Utah made its third consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance and second-round finish, and notched a fifth-straight 20-win season. The Utes excelled both academically and athletically last year, and many individual and team accomplishments were recognized. They have experienced many challenges and tests that were put before them and are ready for a new journey in 2001.

"Our expectations are high, and we have our goals in sight," says Head Coach Beth Launiere. "Consistently making the NCAA Tournament has given us a sense of where we want to be. This year's schedule is going to be the strongest one that Utah volleyball has ever had. That, along with our physical presence on the court and our depth will allow us to compete at a higher level of play and take our program to the next step."

Last season the Utes posted a 23-8 overall record and a 10-4 conference mark. This year, Utah returns four starters, 10 letterwinners and adds five newcomers to its roster. A persistent goal of the Ute volleyball program is to contend for the Mountain West Conference Championship and to advance further in the NCAA Tournament each year. Utah was recognized nationally last season in the USA Today/AVCA Top 25 Poll and maintained a ranking throughout the season. It finished with a No. 20 final national ranking.

"We want to win the Mountain West Conference Championship and make the barrier break from the second round of the NCAA's," says Launiere. "I think those two things go without saying. A lot of things have to come into place, but I think we have the ability to do those things. When you're at a certain level, as we have been for the past three years, you realize what goals must be met. The team is committed to achieving those goals. Whether it will happen or not I don't know, but we're determined, because we know all of those things are within our reach.



McKelle Stilson

"Our experience level will be a major strength for us this year. It has been a long time since I have had four seniors with significant playing time under their belts. Last year, certain line-ups left us small. Depending on what we do offensively, our size could become a real factor at the net. Even our bench has the size and the ability for physical play. This year our line-up will never be small, ever."

The Utah team goes at least two-deep in every position on the court and under Launiere's philosophy, Utah's depth will be developed.

"I think we could be a nightmare for opposing teams and I don't say that arrogantly, but we have a lot of players that can play a lot of different positions and can hit a lot of different sets. They are all very experienced and I will play our players for the experience rather than playing just the six starters and no one else. We have players on the bench that can come in and make us better. That has become our biggest trademark."

-Beth Launiere

The Utes lost three important starters to graduation and Launiere is confident that this year's squad will step up and fill the vacancies.

"The loss of our three seniors is as much off the court as it was on the court in terms of leadership," says Launiere. "All of my players are very goal-oriented and I have no doubts or concern that it will be a problem, but that is the nature of college athletics. You lose key people in your program and it is always a loss, but you have to make adjustments and move on."

"Our team's strength is that we have so many offensive weapons we can use. We know we can count on McKelle Stilson and Kim Turner. I have no problem giving a big offensive load to Adrianne (Bradley-Drake), Alisa (Geddes), Lenka (Urbanová), Sylva (Strźinková) or Katrena (Ellett). We may have one person that starts taking over offensively, but better than that, we're going to have five or six players that can all make big contributions at any given time."

OUTSIDE HITTERS

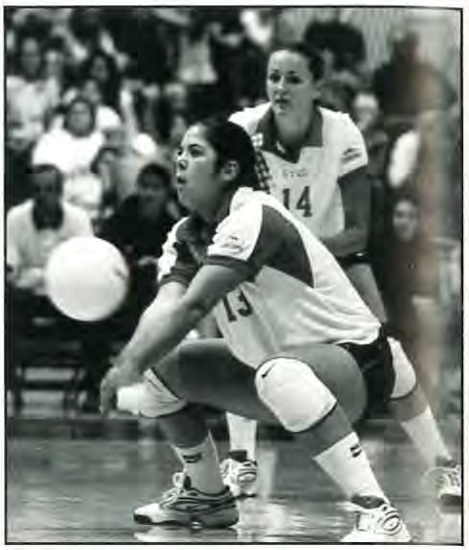
"We have two outside hitters (Alisa Geddes and Lenka Urbanová) whom I consider ball control players," says Launiere. "They will have a significant amount of responsibility in our passing and defensive game. We've also added some offensive power and athleticism to the outside hitter position."



Alisa Geddes

Seniors Alisa Geddes and Lenka Urbanová are no strangers to Utah volleyball. Geddes was a Mountain West Conference all-Tournament selection and Urbanová was named to the Cal Poly SLO all-Tournament team last season.

"Alisa (Geddes) is ready for a great senior season after battling significant injuries last year," says Launiere. "Her passing and ball control are vital to our game, day in and day out to win matches. Lenka (Urbanová) worked very hard in the off season. Because of her versatility in all aspects of the game, she plays an extremely important role on this team."

McKelle Stilson has been an offensive force for the Utes for the past three years. This season, she moves from the middle blocker position to outside hitter to help aid an ongoing knee problem. Launiere is confident and expects big contributions in the upcoming season.

"We think we might have found a solution to McKelle's (Stilson) knee problem by moving her to the opposite position," says Launiere. "She could play either middle or opposite, but is an offensive and defensive force in whatever position she plays."

"Katrena (Ellett) made huge strides moving from middle to the outside last year," says Launiere. "Her competitiveness is a key piece to our team and she continues to improve her game. Tara (Henriksen) is a hard worker and a goal-oriented person. She doesn't see any limits to her potential."

2001 Season Outlook

Transfer Sylva Strżinková and newcomer Shelly Hundley are expected to make an immediate impact at the outside hitter position in 2001.

"Sylva (Strżinková) is a big, 6-1, powerful, physical volleyball player that can hit every set and play every position," says Launiere. "Playing her at the left side could make a big difference for our team. Shelly (Hundley) is an exciting player coming into this program because of her size and her athleticism. I look for her to develop into a great player."

MIDDLE BLOCKERS

Utah's middle attack should emerge as one of its most improved areas from years past. Lack of size and depth hindered Utah's past progress, but in 2001, the Utes will be big and physical at the net. Two of last year's middle blockers will also see time at the outside hitter position, while three seasoned veterans return, and one transfer was added to the line-up.

"Obviously it is a big position for us," says Launiere. "We look for Kim Turner to carry even more of an offensive load for us this year. By moving McKelle (Stilson) out of the middle and moving Adrianne (Bradley-Drake) and Brenda (Beal) back into the middle, we will have three solid players returning, four if you include McKelle, and I would feel comfortable going with any of them."

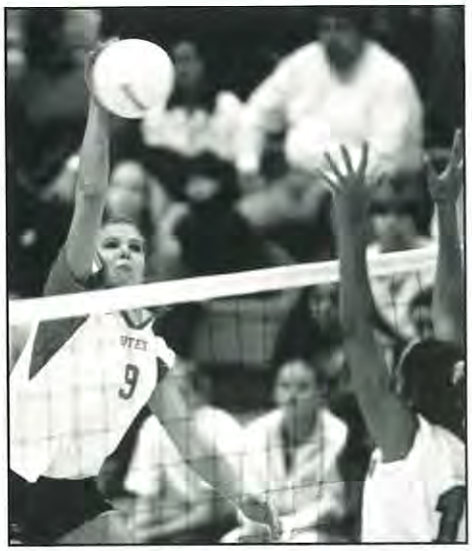
Sophomore Kim Turner claimed several awards and accolades in her rookie year. She was an all-conference and all-tournament selection, as well as the Mountain West Conference Freshman of the Year in 2000.

Adrianne Bradley-Drake is versatile and athletic. She will add leadership and many other components to this year's squad. Launiere looks for both Turner and Bradley-Drake to anchor the middle this season.

"Kim had a great offensive year her freshman season and got a ton better at the blocking game this spring," says Launiere. "We look for her to become even more of a force both offensively and defensively. Adrianne is a player that does a lot of things very well because of her good technique and experience. She should play a major role for us this year."

Other key contributors will be Brenda Beal and Brit Whiting. Beal returns with the experience and knowledge to play at the net, and Whiting transfers in from Gonzaga University, where she gained a lot of playing time right from the get-go. They will be expected to lighten the load, both offensively and defensively and add the extra depth in the middle position.

"Brenda (Beal) is a disciplined, committed athlete and person," says Launiere. "She plays high above the net and that will put her in a position to be a key player for us. Brit (Whiting) was a very good high school and club player who gained valuable experience at the collegiate level the past two years. That experience will add to our depth."



Lenka Urbanová

SETTERS

The big question this season in the Ute line-up will be at the setter position. Utah lost a two-time all-conference setter in Lucie Turková. Turková played an integral role in Utah's offense last season. Launiere is confident that whomever steps into the setting role, she will be surrounded by experience and leadership.

"Jackie Morrill has some experience under her belt with this team," says Launiere. "We're bringing in two freshmen that have good experience. All three of them are going to have the opportunity to run this team in the preseason. We may use two setters instead of one to ease the pressure early in the season. This position is key to our offensive attack, but I feel confident and am not concerned with it at all. "

Morrill gained playing time early in her career as a defensive specialist. This past spring she earned the setting duties and made big strides. The experience she gained in the spring will only make the Utes stronger in that position.

"Jackie (Morrill) is an all-around athlete that does good things on the court," says Launiere. "She makes us better because of her quickness and athleticism."

Kelsie Kartchner and Tracy Neumeier will also vie for time at the setting position.

"Kelsie (Kartchner) will be given every opportunity to be the starting setter for us," says Launiere. "She was a highly recruited, 5-10 setter that I think will have a really good career at Utah. She is a young setter, but will be surrounded by experience. Tracy (Neumeier) is a smaller setter, but she is also very good. She is a driven competitor and will be valuable to us at the setter position."

DEFENSIVE SPECIALIST

Sophomore Taryn Horner and Morrill will round out the back row as a defensive specialists. Horner saw limited time last season, but improved over the spring season and has a bright future.

Kim Turner

"Taryn (Horner) takes the defensive specialist role very seriously," says Launiere. "It is a key element to our program and Taryn works hard at that position. Jackie (Morrill) is one of our best defensive players and passers. Her experience in this position should make a big impact this season."

THE SCHEDULE

Utah's 2001 schedule could compete as one of the 20 toughest schedules in the country. The non-conference competition is comprised of schools from the Atlantic 10, Atlantic Coast, Big 12, Big Sky, Big 10, Big West, Conference USA, Missouri Valley, Pac-10 and the West Coast Conference. The 2001 schedule highlights 11 matches against nine 2000 NCAA Tournament participants. The Utes will take on Georgia Tech, Texas Tech, Arizona, Louisville, Colorado, Loyola Marymount and Utah State in non-conference play, and will match-up with conference foes Brigham Young and Colorado State twice each in the regular season.

The Utes will host the Utah Classic, Aug. 31-Sept. 1, then travel to Tucson, Ariz., for the Arizona Tournament on Sept. 6-7. They will take on Colorado at home on Sept. 8, before hosting the Utah/Illinois Challenge on Sept. 14-15. Utah opens MWC play with in-state rival Brigham Young on Sept. 20, in Provo, Utah.

"The 2001 schedule should be the toughest and strongest that Utah volleyball has ever had," says Launiere. "I traditionally like to build a strong schedule, and this year, I decided to make what I think is even more of a jump in our strength of schedule. I decided last year that we might have more losses going into the NCAAs, but we're not going to go in with an eight or nine seed. I rolled the dice and took a chance. I think we can win a lot of matches with this schedule and help up our seeding in the NCAAs. That is our plan and I have the confidence in our team that we can do it, even if it compares to one of the toughest 20 schedules in the country."

Beth Launiere • 12th Season • 203-146 (.582)

Beth Launiere has not only resurrected the Ute volleyball program and turned it into a consistent winner, she has also guided Utah to unprecedented success on the national level.

Under Launiere's leadership, Utah made its third consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance in 2000, and for a third year advanced to the second round. It is the crowning achievement of Launiere's 11-year tenure at Utah, in which she has posted a 203-146 (.582) career record.

The winningest coach in school history, Launiere has overseen a significant transformation since her arrival in 1990. In the last seven years alone, Launiere has guided the Utes to five consecutive and six overall 20-win seasons. Utah's third-place finish in the MWC in 1999 and 2000 marked its eighth consecutive upper division finish in conference play.

Launiere worked hard in 2000 to maintain the level of play and expectations of the previous season. The 2000 season was a definite breakthrough year for Utah volleyball. Starting off on a good note, the Utes checked in with 59 votes in the preseason poll. With a 23-8 overall record, Utah posted its fifth consecutive, and sixth overall, 20-win season. The Utes' .742 overall winning percentage proved the best in school history. Utah also equaled the third-best conference winning percentage in school history last season (10-4, .714). The 2000 squad was the only team in school history to beat a No. 1 ranked opponent (a come-from-behind five-game victory over Stanford). With the win over Stanford and two more wins that next weekend, Utah earned its first-ever national ranking, coming in 18th in the USA Today/AVCA Top 25 poll released Mon., Sept. 12, 2000. Launiere recorded her 200th career victory at the McLeodUSA MWC Tournament with a 3-1 (15-9, 15-3, 5-15, 15-9) win over UNLV on Thurs., Nov. 16, 2000.

The season before also saw the Utes pull off a 20-win season (22-10 overall, 10-4 MWC). Utah made its second-consecutive trip to the NCAAs and its second-consecutive second-round finish. The Utes' .688 overall winning percentage and .714 conference winning percentage equaled the third-best in school history.

In many ways, 1998 was an important milestone in Launiere's tenure on the Hill. The Utes made it to the second round in their first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance. Launiere was later honored with the U.'s Don Reddish Coach of the Year award. Utah posted a 21-10 record against a schedule featuring nine teams that made the NCAA Tournament. Utah also matched its best-ever winning percentage in WAC play (.643) and finished 9-5, good enough for third place in the Pacific Division. For the third year in a row, Utah advanced to the quarterfinals of the WAC Tournament. The Utes also set the school single-season record for attendance by averaging 652 fans over 10 home contests, breaking the former best average mark by nearly 70 fans.

In 1997, Launiere's Utes posted the second-best overall season winning percentage in school history (.710) by going 22-9, as well as the second-best winning percentage in WAC play (.643) with a 9-5 mark, to place fourth in the Mountain Division. In a season full of highlights, the Utes tied the longest winning streak in the school annals with 11 wins from Sept. 6 through Oct. 2. Utah also equaled its best start to the WAC season, winning its first three matches and going 5-2 through the first half of the league schedule.

Launiere surpassed the 100-career victory plateau in 1996 with a 3-0 win over Utah State on Sept. 20. The Utes went 20-12 overall in 1996 and amassed the most wins ever in WAC play with a 10-6 record to place third in the Mountain Division.

In 1995, Utah appeared in the national poll voting and defeated a ranked opponent for the first time. Two other milestones were surpassed in '93, when Utah posted a 25-win season and was extended a postseason bid to the National Invitational Volleyball Championship.

To fully appreciate what Launiere has accomplished, one must reflect on where she began. The season prior to Launiere's arrival, Utah compiled a 1-32 record. In her first season at the helm in 1990, Launiere coached the Utes to six more wins than were recorded the previous year, and instilled a new competitive attitude in the program. The instantaneous improvement enabled Launiere to elevate the level of play and bring excitement and fan support back to Utah volleyball.

In Launiere's second season, Utah more than doubled its win total again, going 15-20. In only her third season, she won 18 games - the first winning season in seven years - and opened the door to many of the milestones since reached.

The 1993 Utes produced one of the school's most successful campaign ever, going 25-11 and placing fourth in the WAC. Utah also earned its first postseason berth, placing third in the NIVC. Both the Utes as a team, and senior Mikki Kane-Barton, led the nation in blocks - a first for any WAC team.

In 1994, Launiere won her 81st career match at Utah and became the winningest coach in school history. The Utes were invited to participate in the NIVC for a second-consecutive year, but declined to participate.

The '95 Utes placed fourth in the WAC with a 7-7 record. Included in a 3-0 start to the conference season was a shutout of No. 16 Brigham Young, which marked Utah's first defeat of a nationally ranked opponent in a decade. The all-time single-season attendance record was broken, with more than 8,200 fans flocking to Crimson Court.

Most of the biggest names in Utah volleyball have played for Launiere. Brenda Barton-Whicker (1994-97) was the first player in school history to be named an AVCA District VII All-American in '95. She finished her career as Utah's all-time leader in kills, attempts, digs and service aces. Graciela Torres-Lopez (1996-99) took over as the Utes' all-time leader in career assists at the end of the 1998 season. Sara Shakula, who finished her career in 1998, is second all-time in kills. Former assistant coach Linda Byington (1990-91) is Utah's all-time leader in hitting efficiency. Mikki Kane-Barton (1992-93) is second all-time in blocks at the U. Katie Tagge (1993-95), ranks third on the all-time assists chart. Launiere's latest prodigy, senior McKelle Stilson is third in all-time hitting efficiency, in block assists, fourth in total blocks and seventh in kills.

Launiere gained coaching experience on the international level in the summer of 1996, taking the USA All-Star Team on a two week tour of England. The team, consisting of 14-17 year-old girls, was sponsored by the USA Volleyball Youth Developmental Program. Launiere is also in her fifth year as a member of the AVCA All-America Committee.

Prior to coming to Utah, the Grand Rapids, Mich., native spent two successful seasons (1988-89) as an assistant coach at the University of Illinois. The Fightin' Illini went to two NCAA Tournaments, advanced to the 1988 Final Four and posted a 57-12 record during Launiere's stay.

As an assistant at Ferris State (Mich.) from 1985-87, Launiere helped guide the Bulldogs to three postseason appearances and a berth in the 1987 NCAA Division II Final Four.

Launiere is a 1985 graduate of Aquinas College (Mich.), where she earned a bachelor's degree in business administration and economics. She also has a master's in sports administration from Illinois.

The 38-year-old Launiere is the fifth coach in 26 years at Utah and has a tenure longer than any of her predecessors.

Strength & Conditioning

The Ute volleyball team benefits from a certified strength and conditioning program. They train in the Dee Glen Smith Center's 7,500-square foot, glass enclosed strength and conditioning facility using programs designed by director of strength and conditioning Jason Veltkamp, MS CSCS.

Veltkamp is the Utah state director of the National Strength and Conditioning Association and is an NSCA certified specialist. He oversees a staff of six, all of whom are certified club coaches by U.S.A. Weightlifting. Full-time assistants are Scott Croft, Tyler Barker and Jon Webster. Joe McCollum and Justin Taylor are interns with another intern to be named.

Scott Croft manages the daily strength and conditioning care for the Utah volleyball team. Croft is a 1995 graduate of Central Missouri State University. He is an NSCA certified strength and conditioning coach.

Sports Medicine

Utah volleyball enjoys a partnership with a veteran sports medicine team, headed by orthopedic surgeon Dr. Bob Burks and family practitioner Dr. Liz Joy. Burks, the head team physician for the University of Utah athletics department, has been its orthopedic surgeon since 1998. He also directs the University of Utah Sports Medicine Center at Red Butte Clinic and is an associate professor of orthopedic surgery at the U. Dr. Joy, a former collegiate athlete herself (she lettered in volleyball and track at Minnesota), is in her sixth year as Utah's team physician. She also practices family and sports medicine at the University of Utah Family Health Center. Joy is chairperson of the American Medical Society for Sports Medicine.

The Utes also utilize a nationally recognized sport psychologist. Dr. Keith Henschen, a professor in Utah's College of Health, in his 24th year with the Utah athletics department. His other experience includes chairing the USGF Sport Psychology Committee and working at the Olympic level with two other national governing bodies. The Ute volleyball team also receives consultation from Jen Kilgore, a doctorate student in sports psychology at the U.

The Utes' nutritional care is under the charge of sports nutrition consultant Claudia Wilson, now in her fourth year with the volleyball team. Wilson, MS, RD, who is also a clinical dietician for the University of Utah Nutrition Clinic, specializes in sports nutrition, female athlete triad disorders and eating disorders. She is a member of the American Dietetics Association and Sports and Cardiovascular and Wellness Nutritionists (SCAN), an ADA practice group.

The daily physical care of the Utes is handled by the sports medicine staff. A.J. Hansen is in her second year at the U. as a graduate assistant volleyball trainer. She received her bachelor's degree in athletic training from Wingate University in Wingate, N.C. in May 2000. The entire sports medicine staff is overseen by director Bill Bean and associate director Deb Willardson. They both have 27 years of experience at the University of Utah. There are three other full-time assistants on staff in the sports medicine department. They are: Bob Toth, Sharon Oshita and Trevor Jameson.

Academics/Career Counseling

Mary Bowman, an assistant athletics director and Utah's director of student-athlete support services, oversees the academic team at Utah. Bowman and her staff, which includes academic advisors Joann Hulbert-Eagan, Rob Rainey and Chris Reilly operate from the new 11,500 square foot Kenneth P. Burbidge Jr. Family Athletics-Academics Center on the U. campus.

Among her other duties, Bowman supervises the areas of academic advising, career planning and placement and the NCAA Life Skills program. Rainey, in his ninth year at Utah, is the advisor for the Ute women's volleyball team. He holds master's degrees in elementary education from Wilkes (1988) and counselor education from Penn State (1990).

Manny Hendrix, a former starter for the Dallas Cowboys, is in his seventh year as Utah's director of athletic relations. Hendrix, who played basketball at the U. as an undergraduate, now assists student-athletes in career planning. He also runs the Partnering with U. program, which provides internships and summer jobs.

Director of Athletics

Dr. Chris Hill • Director of Athletics • Special Assistant to the President

Dr. Chris Hill, Utah's director of athletics and special assistant to the president of the University of Utah, has made Utah athletics a national player since taking the reins in 1987. Hill, just 37 years old when he was named director of athletics, has administered the U. athletics program through the most successful period in its history.

His vision reaches beyond the athletics department. Since 1998, he has been the special assistant to U. president Dr. Bernie Machen. On a national level, Hill was the NCAA appointed chairman of the powerful Championships/Competition Cabinet from 1997-98. He now serves as the Mountain West Conference representative on the NCAA Management Council and is chair of the Management Council's subcommittee on anti-trust. He was also chair of the transition committee for the Mountain West Conference.

But his biggest strides have come on the U. campus, where his tenure has been charged with capital improvements, an emphasis on student-athlete welfare and academics, and winning programs.

Hill was the driving force behind an athletics corridor on the U. campus that now features numerous national caliber varsity athletics facilities. The cornerstone is Rice-Eccles Stadium, a beautiful $50 million, 45,634-seat structure that opened in 1998. (See inset for a complete list of facilities built during Hill's term). Also close to Hill's heart is the new, high tech Kenneth P. Burbidge Jr. Family Athletics Academic Center. Opened last March, the Burbidge Center offers unparalleled academic opportunities for the U.'s varsity student-athletes.

On the playing field, Utah is not just a conference leader, but also a national power under Hill's leadership. One of the many highlights was the men's basketball team making the 1998 NCAA Final Four and playing Kentucky in the championship game. Utah has also captured multiple national championships in gymnastics and skiing since he became director of athletics, and the football team has appeared in five bowl games. Utah teams won the "big three" championships–football and men's and women's basketball–in the inaugural year of the Mountain West Conference in 1999-2000.

Hill positioned himself for the top athletics job after two highly successful years fund-raising for the Crimson Club as its director of development. The New Jersey native first came to the U. as a graduate assistant basketball coach (1973-74) under Bill Foster. He was an assistant under Jerry Pimm from 1979-81.

Between his coaching and administrative stints with Utah athletics, Hill was executive director of United Cerebral Palsy of Utah (1981-85), where he helped raise $750,000 in federal, state and private funding to develop a housing project for people with severe handicaps.

He has won many awards, including: a 1981 Milton Bennion Fellowship, 1984 Utah Recreation Therapy Association Outstanding Service Award, 1996 Utah MS Sportsperson of the Year and 1998 Inductee into the Jersey Shore Hall of Fame. He currently serves on the Regence BlueCross BlueShield Board of Directors. In 2001, the National Consortium for Academics and Sports gave him its Degree Completion and Outreach and Community Service Honor Award.

As an undergraduate, Hill lettered three years and was co-captain of the 1971-72 Rutgers basketball team. His bachelor's degree from Rutgers is in mathematics (1972). He also has a master's in education (Utah, 1974), and a Ph.D. in educational administration (Utah, 1982). Hill taught in the University's special education department from 1983-85. He coached boys basketball at Granger High (Utah) from 1975-79, winning 4A coach of the year his first year.

Hill, 51, is married to the former Kathy Cronin, a clinical instructor in the U. department of special education. They have two children: Aly (23) and Christopher (19). Aly played soccer the University of Oregon and is now in the master's of social work program at Utah. Christopher is a sophomore at the University of Utah.

Utah Volleyball Gets Déjà-Vu In 2000...

Utes Head Back To Hawaii For NCAA Tournament

The Utah volleyball team made school history by winning 23 matches and making its third-consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance and second-round finish. The Utes were the No. 8 seed in the West Region and were sent to Honolulu, home of the No. 1 seed Hawaii, for the second year in a row. Utah defeated Texas Tech, 3-2 (6-16, 15-8, 2-15, 15-10, 15-12) in the first round and lost to Hawaii, 3-0 (12-15, 8-15, 8-15) in the second round match.

"After we beat Stanford, I saw the telling signs of what type of a year it could be for us," commented head coach Beth Launiere. "It was a sign of potential within the team early on. How can you go into the lockerroom down 0-2 to the No. 1 team in the country, having lost 15-13 and played very well, and think that you're going to win that match? My players never let that affect them or their focus. We just chipped away at Stanford and won the match. Nobody knew what the feeling was like going into the lockerroom afterwards except those 18 people. Our year was a lot like the Stanford match in the sense that our team never gave up."

The Utes finished their season with a 23-8 overall record and a 10-4 conference mark. Utah posted its fifth-straight and sixth overall 20-win season. The 23-8 record comprised the best win-loss record in Utah volleyball history. The Utes completed the Mountain West Conference regular-season and tournament play in third place, marking their sixth upper-division finish. Utah earned its first-ever national ranking on September 11, coming in 18th in the USA Today/AVCA Top-25 poll. The Utes remained in the rankings for 14 consecutive weeks, rising all the way to No. 15. They finished the season with a No. 20 ranking.

"We didn't have the most physical team last year by any stretch of the imagination, but we always found a way to win," said Launiere.

Three reasons were found in Utah's senior class. Lucie Turková, Brooke Barton and Jen Snow-Richards each left their mark in the Utah record books. Turková ended her career fourth in matches played (124), fifth in games played (439) and assists (1,792), eighth in service aces (104) and tenth in digs (871). Barton was third in games played (451), fourth in matches played (126) and service aces (128) and seventh in digs (941). Snow-Richards finished tenth in matches played (121). Turková was an all-MWC selection in 2000 and ranked among the MWC's individual leaders in assists.

The Utes played in two tournaments featuring regionally ranked and Top-25 teams. Utah swept the opposition and won the New Hampshire Tournament in Durham, N.H., on Sept. 1-2. They defeated Eastern Michigan, UMass and New Hampshire in three games each. The following week, Utah captured the Cal Poly SLO Tournament championship in San Luis Obispo, Calif. The Utes brought down Nevada, a ranked San Diego team, and host Cal Poly SLO. Undefeated in regular-season play, Utah did not feel defeat until Sept. 16, when it suffered a heartbreaking three-game loss to then-No. 3 ranked Arizona. The Utes opened conference play by making a 10-4 run, losing twice to Colorado State and once to Brigham Young and San Diego State. At the MWC Tournament, Utah lost in the semifinals to BYU. Three MWC teams, one Utah, qualified for the NCAA Tournament. It was the third-straight appearnace by the Utes.

Lucie Turková, Jen Snow-Richards and Brooke Barton

All of Utah's eight losses were toTop-25 teams except one. The Utes went 3-7 against Top-25 teams. Eleven of Utah's wins came in three games, eight came in four games and four came in five games. Utah posted a 10-2 home record, a 5-5 away record and an 8-1 neutral site record. In 12 games at home, the Utes brought in 8,833 fans, an average of 736 fans per match.

Individually, Utah placed two members on the Mountain West Conference all-conference and all-tournament team. Lucie Turková and Kim Turner were first-team selections. Turner claimed the MWC Freshman of the Year honors and all-tourney honors, while Alisa Geddes was named the tournament's Defensive Specialist. Turková and Jen Snow-Richards were named to the New Hampshire all-tournament team. Katrena Ellett was named the UNH tournament MVP. Snow-Richards and Lenka Urbanová were named to the Cal Poly SLO all-tournament team. McKelle Stilson was named the tournament MVP.

The team also enjoyed success off the court last year through many academic accomplishments. Fifteen of 16 Utes made the honor roll with six athletes also earning Dean's List honors. The team was also honored for its academic success by the Mountain West Conference and the AVCA (American Volleyball Coaches Association). Utah was the only team that finished the 2000 season ranked in the top-20 to win the AVCA Academic award. Barton, Beal, Adrianne Bradley-Drake, Jackie Morrill, Snow-Richards, Stilson, Turková, Turner and Urbanová earned Academic All-Mountain West Conference recognition.

The University of Utah

The University of Utah, a hub for higher education from the Rockies to the Sierras, boasts an academic reputation that is rivaled only by its breathtakingly gorgeous location. To the east, the 11,500 foot peaks of the Wasatch Mountains are snow-capped billboards for a series of popular ski resorts. To the west, the Great Salt Lake shimmers in the shadow of the Oquirrh Mountains. The campus, itself, is a beautiful 1,500-acre collage of native and exotic trees, fountains, flowering malls and pedestrian walkways, nestled between the Wasatch Range and bustling downtown Salt Lake City.

Already a lively community, the U. now offers an exciting on-campus living experience for its students. The 2000 freshman class was the first to reside in Heritage Commons, a multi-purpose student housing complex located in historic Fort Douglas on the eastern edge of campus. This February, Heritage Commons will serve as the Athletes Village for the Winter Olympic Games, hosted by Salt Lake City.

In addition to a fine academic and campus life experience, Utah students enjoy unparalleled outdoor diversions, from skiing and snowboarding at any of eight world-class resorts in nearby canyons, to backpacking, mountain biking, fly fishing and river running.

The U.'s location in the largest city in the Intermountain West (population 1,333,914) also provides a metropolitan charm. The 36th largest metro area in the nation, Salt Lake is home to professional symphony, ballet, modern dance, opera and theater companies, as well as the NBA's Utah Jazz, WNBA's Utah Starzz, Triple A baseball's Salt Lake Stingers and the International Hockey League's Utah Grizzlies.

The University, which offers more than 120 undergraduate degree programs and 93 graduate majors, draws its 25,000-plus student population from all 50 states and 102 foreign countries. Ninety-five percent of Utah's faculty members hold the highest degree in their fields.

Founded in 1850, the U. has established itself as an international center for medical and engineering research. It manages one of the three most successful technology parks in the U.S., with more than 40 new high-tech companies created by University faculty. The Huntsman Cancer Center and the Howard Hughes Medical Institute make Utah the primary research company in the nation for understanding the genetic basis of cancer. Utah is ranked in the top 35 (of 550) research universities in the most recent National Science Foundation rankings. Nationally, the U. is listed 19th in corporate funding for research. The University is a leader in technology transfer and frequently ranks first in the nation in number of inventions per million dollars expended for research. Inventions include a wearable kidney, robotic technology and the Utah artificial arm.

Utah is also a hub in the computer world. The Center for High Performance Computing links the U. to major aerospace industries, high-tech manufacturers and research companies. The Department of Computer Science is ranked in the top 20 computer science research departments in the nation. The U. was named one of five finalists in the science category of the 1998 Computerworld Smithsonian Awards. Back in 1970, the U. became the fourth node on the Internet.

The annual issue of U.S. News and World Report ranked Utah as a second tier University in 2001, which places the U. somewhere between 52-115 among American colleges (rankings outside the top 50 are listed alphabetically). Only six schools in the Mountain West region made Tier 2: Utah, Arizona, Colorado, Colorado School of Mines, Denver and Brigham Young. According to the U.S. News data, Utah's 3.2 rating would place it No. 38 among public institutions.

Utah's "economic engine," the University of Utah generates nearly $500 million annually in non-tax revenue and is one of the state's largest employers. It has the only medical, social work, architecture and pharmacy schools in a multi-state area. The U.'s many top-flight facilities include a center for dance, a health sciences center, public radio and television stations, three libraries and numerous centers and laboratories devoted to research.

The U. provides a lot of fun, too. Over a million people enjoy the University of Utah's athletic, entertainment and cultural offerings each year. And Utah is known as a site of championships in the athletic arena, having served as host to a number of national tournaments, including the 1979 NCAA Basketball Final Four, eight National Women's Gymnastics Championships, three NCAA Ski Championships and two National Women's Tennis Championships.

Celebrities such as director Spike Lee are often featured speakers at on-campus assemblies sponsored by the Association of Students at the University of Utah.

ACADEMICS AT UTAH

Research: The U. is an international center for medical and engineering research, and its genetics research ranks among the world's best. The Huntsman Cancer Center and the Howard Hughes Medical Institute make Utah the primary research company in the nation for understanding the genetic basis of cancer.

Technology: The U. manages one of the three most successful technology parks in the U.S., with more than 40 new high-tech companies created by University faculty. The U. is one of the top 10 most successful universities in technology innovation and commercialization.

Scholarship: The average ACT score for U. freshmen is 24, compared to the national average of 21. The number of National Merit Scholars at Utah ranks in the top 40 nationally. The Honors Program is the third-oldest.

Faculty: 95-percent of the faculty have the highest degree in their fields.

Programs: The U. offers more than 120 undergraduate degree programs and 93 graduate majors. Its colleges include a college of law, medicine and architecture. The Applied Sport Science program offers both masters and doctoral degrees.

Computer Facilities: The Kenneth P. Burbidge Jr. Family Academics Athletics Center features the latest in computer technology. Its lab has 40 computers designated solely for varsity athletes. Lap top computers are also available for team travel. One of the first schools to go up on the Internet (in 1970, Utah became the fourth node on the Internet), the U. offers free electronic mail accounts to all students.

As an academic institution, the University of Utah enjoys a richly deserved reputation for excellence in education. The Utah athletics department works hard to ensure that each of its student-athletes takes advantage of the academic opportunities offered. With three full-time athletic academic advisors, the U. provides specialized academic counseling for its student-athletes.

Tracking the academic progress of the football team is Chris Reilly, the coordinator of academic services. Reilly oversees a staff of two: Rob Rainey and JoAnn Hulbert-Eagan.

The Ute academic team, under the direction of Director of Student-Athlete Support Services Mary Bowman, monitors the studies of each student-athlete to ensure he or she is making progress toward a degree. The academic advisors also dispense their knowledge of departmental and University requirements, and assist with course registration and the exploration and selection of majors.

BURBIDGE CENTER

The student in "student-athlete" got a big boost last March, when the stunning new Kenneth P. Burbidge Jr. Family Athletics-Academic Center opened on the U. campus. Designed strictly to serve the U.'s varsity student-athletes, the Burbidge Center is without peer in terms of aesthetics, technology and academic service.

The 11,500 square foot facility is already a campus landmark, with its sweeping floor to ceiling, curved glass wall on the two-story north side. Its location is ideal for the population it serves: Situated between the U. Natatorium and the Huntsman Center, the Burbidge Center is central to Utah's classrooms and athletic venues.

The full-service academic facility, utilized by all 19 varsity Utah athletic teams, was underwritten by a generous $2 million gift from the Kenneth P. Burbidge Jr. family. The center consolidated Utah's athletic-academic efforts, both in terms of computer labs and study space, and academic counseling. The upper level also provides a social gathering place for the student-athletes.

The mission of the Burbidge Family Athletics-Academics Center is to provide an integrated learning environment that will enhance the academic and personal development of all student-athletes. The objective is to accommodate the diverse needs and schedules of Utah's student-athletes through a wide range of individual and group support services, computer technologies and independent study opportunities.

Director of Student-Athlete Support Services Mary Bowman, Director of Athletic Relations Manny Hendrix and Academic Services are housed in the building, as is the award winning U.T.E.S. Life Skills program.

LIFE SKILLS

At the University of Utah, a student-athlete enjoys much more than the chance to participate in a winning program and graduate from a prestigious school. The U. athletics department has a full-time Director of Student-Athlete Support Services, Mary Bowman, whose job is to provide guidance to student-athletes in the areas of career development, academic support, community outreach and personal development. Bowman and her staff help enable Utah's student-athletes to make the most of their undergraduate years, while also interacting with the community and preparing for life after college.

The U. varsity athletic teams have been active participants in the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills Program since 1996. Bowman and her student-athlete participants have put their personal stamp on the program, an award winner that offers regularly scheduled workshops on topics like resume writing, interviewing skills and transition into the work force. Ute Director of Athletic Relations Manny Hendrix runs the "Partnering with U." program, which arranges for job shadowing, internships and summer jobs. Hendrix also teams with the U. Counseling Center to offer a career and life planning class for student-athletes.

Another important aspect of Utah's Life Skills is the volunteer work its student-athletes contribute to the community. The Ute Speakers Bureau trains select student-athletes in public speaking, then schedules them to speak at local elementary and junior high schools on topics such as drug abuse, goal setting, the importance of education, making smart choices and self esteem. Utah student-athletes reach out to more than 5,000 young students in the Salt Lake valley each year. Ute teams also participate in community service projects such as the Special Olympics, LifeCare, Project Youth, the Utah Autism Society, the Utah AIDS Foundation, the Boys and Girls Club and the Utah Chapter for the Prevention of Child Abuse, to name just a few. The Ute athletics department hosts an annual School Is Cool Jam in April, which attracts upwards of 5,000 elementary school children.

The personal development facet of Utah's Life Skills program involves workshops in nutrition, stress management, diversity, eating disorders, relationships, sexual responsibility and conflict resolution.

Also popular with Utah's student-athletes is the Student-Athlete Mentor Program (SAMS). Each team selects two representatives to participate in SAMS. Those representatives are given formal training by the staff of the U.'s Alcohol and Drug Education Center. SAMS participants relay information on referral services regarding personal issues, including substance abuse, to their teammates and other athletes. The student organization has been tremendously successful. Utah's SAMS program was the recipient of an NCAA grant in 1997 for its measures against substance abuse. The grant was one of just 15 nationwide awarded by the NCAA CHOICES program. Another program Bowman directs is the Student Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC), which, like SAMS, is comprised of representatives from all of Utah's 19 varsity teams.

The U.T.E.S. Life Skills program complements the outstanding educational and athletic experience already firmly in place at Utah. At the U., preparing for success after college is a big part of the game plan.

RESIDENCE HALLS

There's a new style of living at the University of Utah. Long known for its commuter population, the U. became a residential campus in the fall of 2000 when students moved into the beautiful new Heritage Commons. The living-learning center allows U. students to experience a "college town" atmosphere in a metropolitan setting and has quickly become a vibrant, energetic student community.

Utah students will temporarily vacate their new digs this February, when the 2002 Olympic Winter Games come to town. Heritage Commons will serve as the Olympic Village during both the Olympic (Feb. 8-24) and Paralympic (Mar. 7-16) Games. An estimated 3,500 athletes and officials will call Heritage Commons home during that time. Print and broadcast media from 80 nations will cover the activities in the Olympic Village, giving the world a look at what the U. has to offer its student residents. After the Games, Heritage Commons will revert to its primary role as a student residential center.

Situated in historic Fort Douglas at the mouth of Red Butte Canyon, and located on 70 acres of land, the expansive 912,000 square foot residential complex boasts incredible views of Salt Lake City and the surrounding mountain ranges.

Heritage Commons consists of 21 buildings–20 residential and one for dining and support services. Eight of the buildings are apartment style, with 235 one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments. The residence halls are spread out over 12 buildings and have a total of 1,515 beds. A maximum of four students share a bathroom and each bedroom has independent heating and air conditioning units.

First-year students live in Gateway Heights, a hall with furnished, double semi-suites, an advanced telecommunications system (voice, video and data), an ethernet connection to the U. student computer system, cable TV connections, a large community lounge, study rooms and indoor bike storage. Each floor has a kitchenette.

Chapel Glen is home to both first year students and upperclassmen and offers the same amenities as Gateway Heights, as well as a fitness area. Sage Point is reserved for upper division students and has single, double and deluxe suites. Sage Point also has computer and technology labs and an international area. The U.T.E. program is housed in Chapel Glen and Sage Point. An acronym for Undergraduate Tradition of Excellence Program, its goal is to broaden students' appreciation for tolerating various lifestyles, cultures, attitudes and values.

Benchmark Plaza is an apartment complex allocated for single students who have earned 60-plus credit hours. Shoreline Ridge, which offers both furnished and unfurnished apartment units, is reserved for students with families and single graduate students.

The Chase N. Peterson Heritage Center, open 24 hours a day, seven days a week during peak demand periods, is the hub of activity in the student housing village. It contains a central dining facility that seats 600, a convenience store, computer and technology labs, fitness and game rooms, four multipurpose rooms, a mail center and more.

Alongside the residence halls and apartments is a University Bookstore branch, University Copy Center and the University Guest House (an on-campus hotel).

Transportation is another benefit of Heritage Commons. A valid U of U parking permit allows residents to park close to their hall. Free shuttles run five routes every 10 minutes and the Utah Transit Authority and light rail (TRAX) combine to traverse 21 routes to and from campus.

Crimson Court

One of the finest volleyball only facilities in the nation, Crimson Court provides a great homecourt environment for Utah volleyball.

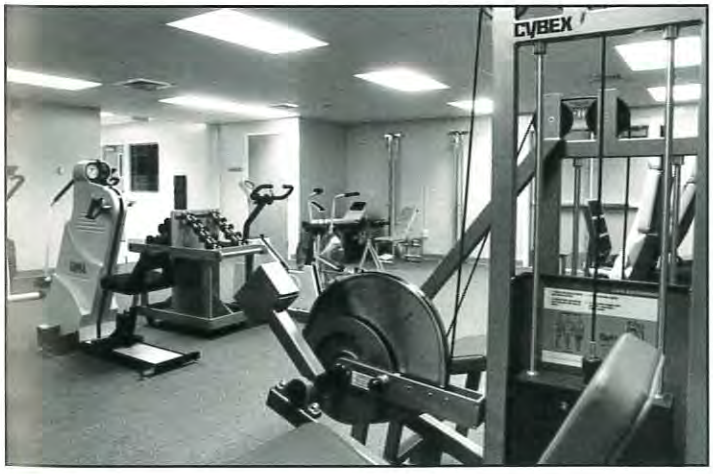
In her first four years, Beth Launiere rebuilt the Utah volleyball program into a program that began to make its mark on the national level. And after the 1993 season, when the Utes set all-time records with 25 wins and a season attendance total of more than 8,200 fans at home matches, the Utah volleyball facility was rebuilt.

Located in HPER E-101, part of the U. health, physical education and recreation facility directly north of the Jon M. Huntsman Center, Crimson Court underwent a $165,000 renovation. Seating was expanded from 600 to 1,500 with new telescopic plate seats around the entire court. To utilize the full facility, the court direction was rotated 90 degrees and centered within the gymnasium. Also, a new sound system was installed and the floor was refinished with new graphics. The lockerroom facilities were upgraded as well.

In six years at Crimson Court, the Utes have posted a 62-23 record and a .729 winning percentage. Crimson Court was officially dedicated on Sept. 9, 1994. The court was christened with a win over Montana State, and a marathon five-game victory over San Jose State in the Utah Classic. The largest crowd to attend a Utah volleyball match assembled on Nov. 14, 1997, when 1,573 fans saw Utah battle in-state rival Brigham Young. The second-largest crowd ever at Crimson Court of 1,569 took in the Utah/BYU match on Nov. 11, 1994. The fifth-largest crowd of 1,389 witnessed Utah stun 16th-ranked BYU on Sept. 22, 1995, sweeping the Cougars before 1,389 fans.

In 1999, Utah set an all-time best mark with an average of 770 fans for 12 matches. The match with BYU on Oct. 15 attracted 1,453 fans, the third-largest crowd in school history. Crimson Court is considered one of the finest in the Mountain West Conference—a league that has quickly earned a reputation of one of the strongest in the country.

Last season, Utah's three-game sweep of BYU on Oct. 6, brought in 1,427 fans. The match is the fourth-largest crowd recorded in school history.



In addition to Crimson Court, the Utah volleyball team enjoys the finest strength, rehabilitation and training equipment available in the Dee Glen Smith Athletics Center, opened in 1991. Its beautiful, modern, fully-stocked strength room is glass-enclosed and overlooks the majestic Wasatch Mountain range. Complementing the fabulous strength training area is a spacious training room and injury rehabilitation center.

Utah And The NCAA Tournament

Utah has started a great NCAA tradition. After qualifying for the NCAA tournament for the first time in 1998, the Utes advanced to the second round. Last year, they made a repeat visit to the tournament with identical results. The Utes were the No. 8 seed in the West Region which was played in Honolulu, Hawaii on Nov. 30-Dec. 1. Utah defeated Texas Tech, 3-2 (6-16, 15-8, 2-15, 15-10, 15-12) in the first round the tourney. The Utes lost to its host Hawaii, 3-0 (12-15, 8-15, 8-15) in the second round.

In 1999, Utah, seeded No. 9 in the Mountain Region, defeated eighth seeded Colorado in three games (15-10, 15-6, 17-15) in the first round and lost to top-seeded Hawaii in three games (15-11, 15-6, 15-4) in the second round of the NCAA sub-regional in Honolulu, Hawaii.

In their first-ever NCAA Tournament in 1998, the Utes received an at large bid as the eighth seed in the Pacific Region. Utah defeated ninth-seeded Illinois State in three games (15-11, 15-12, 15-5) in the first round and lost to top-seeded Nebraska in four games (14-16, 15-4, 15-8, 15-9) in the second round at the sub-regional in Lincoln, Neb.

"1998 legitimized our program and last season solidified it," said Launiere. "While making the NCAA's is obviously a huge goal, the consistency of getting there is the difference. We expect to make the NCAA Tournament now. Our goal is getting to the next level, which is the 'Sweet Sixteen.'

"Making it to the second round for the third straight year in a row allowed us to start thinking about the next level," says Launiere. "Winning with relative ease in the first round has given us the confidence of knowing we belong in the NCAA's. In 1999, we were just a couple of big wins away from getting a better seed in the NCAA's and last season I thought our strength of schedule was better. Not having to play a Hawaii or a Nebraska in the second round is going to make the difference. Our team understands that we need to improve our seed during the regular season to take the next step in the NCAA Tournament and that is where we plan to be in 2001," explains Launiere.

Mountain West Conference

The newest conference in the nation has quickly emerged as one of the best. The Mountain West Conference, which officially commenced operation on July 1, 1999, has appeared in six NCAA Tournaments in its first two years of operation.

In women's volleyball, league champion BYU made it to the NCAA Sweet 16, Colorado State made it to the NCAA Regional semifinals and Utah advanced to the NCAA second round. The Mountain West Conference final league RPI (produced by the NCAA) was eighth in the nation. There are 32 active NCAA Division I volleyball conferences in the country, with the MWC the newest.

While the league is in its infancy, the eight teams in it have a long and storied athletic history. The University of Utah has become a household name in men's basketball, advancing all the way to the national championship game in 1998. In football, Brigham Young, Air Force, Colorado State and Utah have all been ranked in the top 25 in the last seven years. Mountain West Conference teams own a host of national championships, including 10 gymnastics and 10 ski titles for Utah, the 1984 national football championship and a pair of women's cross country crowns for BYU, and the 1990 NCAA men's basketball and 1998 NCAA men's golf championship for UNLV.

Mountain West Conference teams have produced numerous famous professional and Olympic athletes, as well. Some of the more notable stars from MWC schools: NFL players Mike Anderson, Jamal Anderson and Luther Elliss of Utah, Marshall Faulk of San Diego State, Steve Young of BYU and Randall Cunningham of UNLV; NBA players Keith Van Horn and Andre Miller of Utah, and Larry Johnson and Stacey Augmon of UNLV; major league baseball players Tony Gwynn and Mark Grace from San Diego State, Wally Joyner from BYU, and Matt Williams and Todd Stottlemyre from UNLV; Colorado State swimmer Amy Van Dyken, who won four Olympic gold medals in 1996, and Utah gymnast Missy Marlowe, a 1988 U.S. Olympian.

The MWC was conceived on May 26, 1998, when Utah, Air Force, Brigham Young, Colorado State, New Mexico, San Diego State, UNLV and Wyoming announced their plans to leave the Western Athletic Conference, which had grown to 16 schools. They would take the backbone of the WAC with them in their move to a new conference. Four of the 'breakaway schools' were charter members of the WAC: Utah, BYU, New Mexico and Wyoming helped form the WAC in 1962. Colorado State (1967), San Diego State (1978) and Air Force (1980) were also longtime constituents. Only UNLV (1996) was a WAC newcomer.

While more compact in terms of teams and time zones, the Mountain West Conference has an incredible geographical diversity. Some of the most beautiful terrain in the country is found within MWC boundaries, including the unparalleled Rocky Mountain range, which borders four MWC schools (Utah, BYU, Air Force and Colorado State). Wyoming is a reminder of the 'old West,' while the glitter of Las Vegas has made it the country's fastest growing metropolitan area. San Diego State provides the MWC with a Pacific coast locale and UNM serves up a Southwestern flavor.

The Mountain West Conference, an NCAA Division I member for all of its 19 conference-sponsored sports, is located in Colorado Springs, Colo. The conference became eligible for automatic qualification to all NCAA Championships starting with the 2000-01 season. In addition, the league has made inroads with the Bowl Championship Series and its commissioner, Craig Thompson, participates in all BCS meetings.

One of Thompson's first priorities was to secure a television contract for the MWC. On February 1, 1999, ESPN, Inc. and the Mountain West Conference announced a seven-year, $48 million agreement giving ESPN exclusive national television rights to MWC football and men's basketball. The MWC has also secured automatic berths in three postseason bowl games. The Liberty Bowl takes the MWC champion, the New Orleans Bowl (new this year) chooses second and the Las Vegas Bowl will get the third pick of teams.

SALT LAKE CITY

Salt Lake City, home to the University of Utah, is one of the most beautiful and vibrant cities in America. Its location between two magnificent mountain ranges and a booming economy made Salt Lake City the natural choice to host the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

Salt Lake City beckons major events like the Olympics with its beauty, location, economic strength, cultural and recreational opportunities and accessibility to the world. Money Magazine agreed, naming Salt Lake the West's most liveable city in its December 2000 issue.

Surrounded by awe-inspiring geographical landmarks, Salt Lake City offers majestic views in all directions. To the east are the 11,500-foot peaks of the Wasatch Mountains ("mountains of many waters," as named by the Paiute Indians), the western-most Rocky Mountain range. To the west soar the Oquirrh Mountains (pronounced Oaker and meaning "the shining mountains"). In between is the Great Salt Lake, also known as America's Dead Sea. It is the world's second largest saltwater lake and is nine times saltier than an ocean.

Salt Lake's economy matches its natural wonders in impressiveness. City and State magazine, which is published for local government officials, ranked Salt Lake No. 1 among 195 cities in terms of economic strength. With a metropolitan population of 1,333,914, Salt Lake is the financial, educational, distribution, warehousing, commercial, cultural and communications hub of the Intermountain region. It is also center to world-renowned medical and technological industries. Of the 50 states, Utah has the second-largest concentration of computer software firms, one of the four largest concentrations of biomedical firms and 450 high tech firms employing 13,000 people.

Tourism is also a big employer. Skiing is a $500 million annual industry in Utah and most of those dollars are generated in the Salt Lake area. The 2002 Winter Olympics are estimated to add $2.8 billion to an already burgeoning Salt Lake economy. Seven world-class ski resorts are located within 30 minutes of Salt Lake International Airport and downtown Salt Lake, with four more less than an hour's drive away.

Cultural activities and sports and recreation also flourish in Salt Lake City. The area enjoys a broad base of cultural and religious diversity, and is home to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons), to which some 40 percent of Salt Lake residents belong. Hispanic, Native American and Asian/Pacific residents have higher numbers than the national average, while the African-American community is vibrant and growing. As for culture, Salt Lake has more professional dance companies than any city other than New York City and also boasts professional symphony, opera and theater. Fifteen art galleries are located in the downtown area.

Professional sports are big in Salt Lake City, with a National Basketball Association franchise (the Utah Jazz), a Women's NBA team (the Utah Starzz), Triple A baseball (the Salt Lake Stingers) and IHL hockey (the Utah Grizzlies).

Recreational opportunities abound, with 11 national parks less than a day's drive from Salt Lake City. Fly fishing, backpacking, mountain biking and river running are a part of life in Salt Lake City. LIFE Magazine has ranked Salt Lake City one of the top vacation getaways in the country. With four distinct seasons, a humidity average of 15 percent and mostly sunny days, Salt Lake offers pleasant weather conditions year round.

As accessible as recreation and culture are to Salt Lake City residents, the city itself is accessible to the world. Salt Lake International Airport, the 25th busiest in the United States, is less than three hours flying time from half the population of the U.S. There are more than 500 daily arrivals and departures and eight major airlines operate from the airport. It is closer to the heart of the city it serves than any other major airport in the United States.

The World Is Coming ...

Salt Lake City will serve as host to the XIX Olympic Winter Games, February 8-24, 2002.

Nearly 3,500 athletes and officials from some 80 countries will descend on Salt Lake City, which is the largest urban area ever to host the games.

It will be the largest Winter Olympic Games in history, with 78 events.

The University of Utah will play a big role in hosting the games. Heritage Commons, the U.'s new residence center, will be converted into the Olympic Village, and the Opening and Closing Ceremonies will be held at Rice-Eccles Stadium.

"Utah volleyball has positioned itself as one of the top programs in the west, on and off the court. We take pride in our student-athletes not only maintaining a balance between academics and athletics, but also developing as people and leaders. The level of success the Utes have experienced shows that we have gained the consistency and stability needed to be considered one of the nation's elite programs.
